Prof. Lowe's Colossal Trans-Atlantic Bal-loon-Bescription of its Dimensions, Ballast, Heating Apparatus, and Life-

Wednesday's Philadelphia Inquirer has a lengthy account of Prof. Lowe's "Great Western" balloon, with which he declares he designs crossing the Atlantic within the next fortnight. We make these extracts:

Por the inflation of the monster a twenty-inch main has been kild directly from the gas-holder. When we state that seventy-live men were required to convey one-quarter of it to the tent, and that it required 120 gallons of varnish to give it. "one coat," some idea may be formed of its vast dimensions. The canvas of which it is composed, if fully spread out, would "roof in" two such buildings as the Academy of Music. We give its dimensions below: Greatest diameter, 130 feet; transverse diameter, 104 feet; hight, from valve to boat, 200 feet; weight, with outit, 3½ tuns; lifting power (aggregate), 22½ tuns, capacity of gas envelop, 120,000 cubic feet.

The car, or basket, which is surpended lumediately below the balloon, is made of rattan, twenty-one feet in circumference, and four feet deep. Its form is circular, and it is surrounded by canvas. This car will carry the zeroauts. A circular seat runs around the interior; the walls and floor are carpeted, and pegs and cleats, placed at convenient distances, serving to support the philosophical instruments with which observations will be taken. Roomy coffers are provided in the car for the conveyance of provisions. A circular orifice in the floor, leads to a short rope-ladder, which affords a ready descent to the boat.

The Ballant.—The quantity of ballast necessary to steady the air-ship is something over 700 tuns. It consists of the common sand, and lies in huge piles just outside of the main tent. Ascending power is imparted to the balloon by disposing of a few handfuls of this material, and repeated tests have proved its utility as a regulator in seromantic travel.

The Life-preserving Smi is constructed entirely of India-rubber, and was presented to the balloon by disposing of the wonder of the main tent. Ascending power is imparted to the balloon by disposing of the feet original investments, with such an assuring adjunct.

The Life Preserving Smi is constructed in such materia, and repeated the provide the view of the congress of line-slaking, which affords a stove, and an India-rubber covering, extending from stem to stern. The Professor stepped into the boat on Saturday, dressed himself in his submarine armor, and ont he plunged into the water and floated like a feather. There was a large number of persons assembled on the wharves, many of whom, on being told the nature of the boat and its captain, exclaimed "faolish man," guess his life isn't dear to him." etc. Should Lowe make his ascension to Europe successfully, he will secure the praise, in exchange for the pity, with which many now view him.

THE ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF THE PRESIDENT OF PREU.—The attempted assassination of President Castillo, of Peru, on the 25th of July, created the greatest excitement at Callao and Lima. While the President was on his way to his residence from the palace, at about seven o'clock P. M. that day, a well dressed man in mask rode up to within a few feet of him and fired a pistol at him, the ball taking effect in his left arm, producing a severe though not dangerous wound. The President was on foot at the time, accompanied by two persons. The man who fired the pistol threw it upon the ground and rode off at full speed, and all efforts to arrest him up to the time of the steamer's sailing, on the 28th, had proved unsuccessful. A reward of $10,000 has been offered for his arrest, or any information that will lead to his capture.

Not merely are Hungarian wines said to be "drier than French wines, more mellow than those of the Rhine, and more piquant than those of Spain," but the country can yield quantities of a second-ary character calculated to meet the demand.

A Press von Frankine Compositors.—Miss Emily Faithful, of London, has established a press in that city for the employment of female compositors. The Queen has signified her approval of the plan, adding that all such useful and practical steps for opening new branches of industry to educated females, must meet her entire approbation.

A Frhale Wins-walker.—The other day at Buffalo, New York, there was a large concourse to witness the ascension of Miss Castella, on the wire-rope, to the top of the conter pole over the canvas of North's circus. She walked, without manifesting the least fear, in a graceful, easy manner, carrying a small balancing-pole in her hands.

INVENTIOR OF A NEW CARRON —A lieuten-ant of an Austrian regiment in Bohom a has invented a new cannon, which, in the opin-ion of judges, far surpasses the Armstrong and Whitworth guns for precision, range to Saratoga with a young man whom he introduced to his friends as "Charley, his mephew."

Charley was an amazing good-looking young fellow, about eighteen years old, with black eyes and rosy cheeks, and a dash of froile about him that won him troops of friends. The ladles were all in love with the little fellow, while the men were ready to die of envy. He danced elegantly, and talked love with all the ardor of a passionate soul. When in the society of men he was more than ever entertaining. He spoke of his conquests and his victims with the utmost sang-froid. He had loves at Saratoga, and at Newport; on the peaks of the White Mountains, and away down among the plautations of the South. In fact, crinoline had raised him to its shrine. Besides all this Charley was a spendthrift. He was prodigal of his money, and wine in abundance was brought at his command. He insisted upon paying for it all, and could tip goblets with the best of them.

But one day Charley drank more than his usual allowance. He became unusually communicative; he said strange things, not the least strange of which was that he was a woman! Charley was correct; he, she or it was a woman, and the mistress of the wealthy New York gentleman, who furnished the "spelter" with which Charley was enjoying Saratoga life. The discovery of "my nephew's" sex necessitated a flight to other

"spelter" with which Charley was enjoying Saratoga life. The discovery of "my rephews" sex necessitated a flight to other quarters, and it is more than likely that the old man and Charley are enjoying themselves at some other watering-place, where the same fashionable kind of life is kept up.

A SENSIBLE SOUTH CAROLINIAN-HIS VIEW OF LINCOLN'S PROBABLE ELECTION.-Colonel B. F. Perry, of Greenville, S. C., says in a

late letter:

Judging from the course pursued by other Presidents, and that policy which usually governs politicians while in power, instead of doing any rash, violent or unconstitutional act, to injure or offend those opposed to him, it is likely Lincoln will pursue a very cautious, politic and wise course toward the the South. It can not be in the nature of any man elevated to the Presidency, to wish to see the Government broken up under his Administration, the Republic dismembered, and the country plunged into civil war. Very likely his great effort will be to acquire popularity in the Southern States, and appease their opposition by a rigid adherence to the Constitution, and respect for the rights of the South. It is not at all improbable that the South may find more favors under the Administration of Lincoln than they have under any Democratic Administration. It may be that "Old Abe" will go out of office quite a favorite with the Southern people. At least we should give him a trial.

Lamarine and the Sculpton.—A Paris journal relates the following scene, which occurred recently in the studio of Preault, the most distinguished of the present school of French sculptors. The artist had just finished shead of "Hecuba," which was considered remarkable, and which he was auxious to show to Lamartine. The author of the Harmonies, who rarely makes visits of any kind, consented, however, to climb Preault's five pair of stairs. "Your 'Hecuba," said Lamartine, is an 'Eschylas' in bronze." "Thanks, master," returned the artist, "your compliseent is much more valuable than diamonds." "But, apropos, my dear Preault," added Lamartine, "you have not yet got the Cross of Honor." "Oh,no. In 1848, when I made the statue of 'Morceau' for the city of Chartres, you promised it to me, but after due reflection you said that the Republic disdained such playthings." "And that was true," replied the poet. "What sort of an honor is it that no longer exists when one's coat is off?" "Yes, but," said Preault," when one's coat is on—."

TERRIBLE RAILWAY ACCIDENT—A WOMAN CUT TO PIECES.—A terrible accident occur-Cut to Pinces.—A terrible accident occur-red the other morning on the Troy and Bos-ton track, in Lansingburg, N. Y., resulting in the instantaneous death of a woman named Mary Malorey. She was mangled utility beyond possibility of recognition; indeed, only close inspection could reveal the fact that the remains were those of a hu-man being. Her limbs were severed at the ankle and at the thigh; her body was cut in two traversely across the abdomen and the ankie and at the thigh; her body was cut in two traversely across the abdomen and the breast; her head was torn off, and the back of it dreadfully crushed; while for a distance of several feet, pieces of torn flesh and gouts of blood lay thickly upon the track. It was a most horrible and heart-sickening specta-cle.

A Female Dos Nursing a Pig.—The Owensboro' (Ky.) Democrat says that Mr. Routon, of that place, has a slut which exhibits an unnatural fordness for a pig, and actually suckles and tends it as she would one of her own offspring. About the same time the slut gave birth to her pupples a neighbor gave his little son the pig—it being about the same age as the pupples. They intended to rear the pig sia pet, but in a short time they discovered the pig smeking with the pupples; the slut making no distinction among them. The pupples have all been given away, and the pig is now the only fondling of the slut.

Territory Boless Explosion—One Man

TERRIFIC BOLLER EXPLOSION—ONE MAN BLOWN TO PINCES AND TWO OTHERS INJURED. The steam grist mill of Mr. Stock, of Me-Gregor, Lown, blew up the other day with a tremendous noise. Fater Eckert, the fireman, was found dead and blown over 190 feet from the head of the boiler, Lewis Stock, the engineer, was badly scalded, and a hand employed slightly injured. The engineer was carrying too much steam for the capacity of the works, and, the head of the boiler hursting out, the fireman was shot away from before it with the force of a cannon ball, and his body horribly disfigured. The engine building is a complete wreek.

PICKPOCKETS FOLLOWING THE PRINCE OF WALES.—Pickpockets are traveling in the wake of the Prince of Wales. At the Cathedral in Quebec, on Sunday last, at which the Prince attended, a merchant named Farnoret was robbed of $1,720, and a lady of her watch and chain.

In England and Wales, to every 1,000 girls 1,045 boys were born, and 102 maies died to every 100 females, but there are more females than males living in England, and out of equal numbers living, 105 males died to every 100 females, the average is twentyone years being 107. The births are always most numerous in the first half of the year. There were 43,300 children born out of wedlock in the year, or one in every fifteen of all the chilsren born slive. The proportion of boys among the illegitimate births is larger than among the legitimate births is larger than among the segitimate by about two in every 100. The marriages of minors in 10,000 persons marrying increased from 885 in 1843 to 1,212 in 1858. In 1841, 41 in 100 of the persons married had to sign the register with their mark, in 1858 only 32. The improvement is most striking among the women. In 1858, 73 in 100 men, and 62 in 100 women, wrote their names on this important occasion. The marriages in 1858 were less than the average. The mortality was high. The number of merchant seamen at sea, in 1858, is calculated at 177,832; and 3,486 deaths at sea among this class were reported.

PROBABLE RENEWAL OF THE PROCTORVILLE (LA.) WAS—TWO MALAYS BUTCHERED BY SPANIARDS.—Some days since two Malays and one Italian, named Savarino, Theodora and Pablo, went to Proctorville, near New Orleans, in a pirogue laden with fish. When they landed on the beach they were fired at by some Spanish vessels in the immediate waters, and the Spaniards, by small boats, landed and attacked with knives the two Malays—the Italian having escaped by means of a skiff. Having savagely butchered the two Malays, the Spaniards buried them in a shallow grave on the beach. They then minde pursuit for the Italian in the skiff, but he out-rowed them, though they had a good lugger, and escaped to St. Marlo, eight miles from Proctorville, and gave information of the murders.

Mode of Forming a Habit of Spraking

Mode of Forming a Habit of Spraking Correctly.—We advise all young people to acquire, in early life, the habit of using good language, both in speaking and writing, and to abandon as early as possible any use of slang words and phrases. The longer they live, the more difficult the acquisition of good language will be; and if the golden age of youth, the proper season for the acquisition of language, be passed in its abuse, the unfortunate victim of neglected education is very probably doomed to talk slang for life. Money is not necessary to procure education. Every man has it in his power. He has merely to use the language which he reads, instead of the slang which he hears; to form his taste from the best speakers and poets of the country; to treasure up choice phrases in his memory, and labituate himself to their use.

REVERENCE FOR THE MEMORY OF CHARBING IN ITALY.—A Florence correspondent writes to the Boston Transcript:

I saw, not long since, a design for a monument to Dr. Channing. It was made by one who never saw the city of Boston, or heard the silver-tongued eloquence of that pure man. But his chaste words, by means of the printed page, have reached thousands in all parts of the world, who never heard his voice. His sympathy with the human race, his heart full of all the finest charities, his life-long appeals for justice, his efforts to draw man from what is low to the pursuit of the highest and best; all by his written of the highest and best; all by his written not less than by his spoken word, have reached millions, and won the profound reverence and admiration which are felt for his name.
